Germany, Spain reach semis

MANAGERS—Germany's disciplined defense and clinical counterattacks produced a crushing 4-0 win over Argentina on Saturday to set up a World Cup semifinal against Spain, which needed a less goal from David Villa to beat Paraguay 1-0.

In Sunday's quarterfinal matches of extraordinary drama, Europe took revenge on Latin America to dominate the World Cup. These European teams and Uruguay will contest next week's semifinals.

South America had dominated the early stages of the World Cup, while soccer powers England, holders Italy and France were all knocked.

Germany's win over Diego Maradona's side marked the second time in two days that a European power had won home one of the two Latin American favorites, following the Netherlands' shock defeat of Brazil on Friday.

Reds seek release of comrades

COMMUNIST REBELS HAVE welcomed a government offer to resume peace talks but urged the Aquino administration to locate at least three missing guerrilla leaders and free several in progress to detention to push the negotiations forward.

At the same time, the rebels dismissed as a "pipe dream" a recent statement by General Perpetuo Alano of South Luzon, who said the military would defeat the insurgency in three years.

President Aquino's peace adviser, Francisco Dela Cruz, said last week that the new administration had sent messages to communist and Muslim separatist groups calling for a resumption of peace talks, and that negotia-

New admin a challenge to RP media

THE ERA OF FLOODING TO death the Aquino administration has come to an end on Wednesday with the inauguration of the highly popular Benigno "Noy" Aquino III.

The inauguration will also mark the end of the oppression of the Philippine media by the Aquino regime. During the past eight years, Aquino's leadership has become a breeding ground for the Philippine media, which takes pride in their position for "investigative journalism" as a

Asks gov't: Privatize Pagcor

By Dora Z. Pazibayan

AN OUTSPOKEN ANTI-gambling prelate has asked President Aquino to disclose his policy on state-sponsored gambling now that he had appointed a new chair to the state-owned Philippine Amusement and Gaming Corp. (Pagcor).

Archbishop Francisco Oscar Cruz, in an interview with the Inquirer on Saturday, voiced concern that Pagcor had received early attention from the Aquino administration, while other major agencies, including the Department of the Interior and Local Government, remained without permanent heads.

On Friday, two days after he assumed office, Mr. Aquino named his office, Cardinal Sin, a former college classmate at Ateneo de Manila University, as chair of Pagcor.

Cardinal Sin, who said he was not going to be in Manila, said he was not going to be in Manila, said he was not going to be in Manila.

P28-M bounty up for massacre suspects

By Jocelyn R. Uy in Manila and Jeffrey M. Henson Inquirer Mindanao

THE INTERIOR DEPARTMENT has set up a P28-million bounty for information leading to the arrest of 112 suspects in the Maguindanao massacre, who remains at large seven months after the slaughter. Police yesterday at Justice Secretary Leila de Lima revealed that she had ordered greater protection for witnesses, who had implicated the powerful Ampatuan clan in the massacre.

De Lima's order followed the killing of a potential key witness in the case, who was gunned down by a lone assassin in Maguindanao province three weeks ago. Two suspects linked to that killing were arrested on Friday.

The interior department memo, issued on June 29, offers a reward of P250,000 for each of the 112 people linked to the June 23, 2009, massacre who have not been captured.

None of the suspects have been identified as members of the Civilian Volunteer Organization (CVO) and 14 are personnel of the Philippine Na-

Another bus accident in Cebu: 15 die, 65 hurt

By Jennifer Nolasco and Chito Anagon Inquirer Cebu

CEBU CITY—TRANSPORT AUTHORITY is blaming 40 police in combat spot checks on public vehicles after an overloaded bus cascading downhill to a concrete fence on Sunday, leaving at least 15 people dead and 65 injured, officials said.

The accident at Bantigue Drive, Andromeda, in Toledo City was the fourth in Cebu in barely a month. The worst occurred in Balabunan town on June 6, when a tourist bus plummeted into a 30-foot ravine, killing 20 tourists and 10 Filipino driver-passengers. The Land Transportation Franchising and Regulatory Board (LTFRB) in General Viñes responded for over month the operation of VI & B Bus Co., owner of the ill-fated bus.

The heads of the regional offices of the LTFRB and the Land Transportation Office will meet this morning to plan on how to conduct a random check on the roadworthiness of buses plying the southern, southwestern and northern Cebu routes. Another vehicular accident

Airbus expertise

A major reason the LTP's success is its focus on the Airbus A330 and A340 models, which has made it a key international provider of MRO services for these wide-body aircraft. In 2005, LTP established a network of operations for the Airbus A330 which became a huge success.

Today, LTP leads in terms of revenue among Lufthansa Technik's major service companies and is number two overall worldwide. Credit is to the LTP technology and response to market requirements and its ability to system competitive clients like the recent global downturn.

However, Western clients, LTP also provides for maintenance and repair, points out that LTP's track record is more than 100 checks in the last three years, coupled with the strong Lufthansa brand, has contributed to make it a major MRO player in the international market.

"It is common, we have Filipino workers who are LTP's biggest assets, who are very passionate about their jobs and work to keep our company's services on par with the best in the world," he adds.

Currently, the company has more than 20 locations in Asia, including its first locations in Manila, Cebu, and Davao. Most competitive work is still done in heavy maintenance - the Airbus wide-body jets, which LTP's expertise is doing at its facility in Manila.

Key factors

Manila-based LTP's success is largely due to its focus on its partnership with Lufthansa, its solid technical background, its timely response to market movements, and its intensive pricing that leverages its technological expertise and strong Lufthansa brand.

Also a major factor is the LEAS process improvement system introduced three years ago, which streamlined the company's turnaround and enhanced its overall efficiency.

"Because of our first-in-market status and the premium we put on safety and reliability, many of our clients are repeat customers who keep coming back to Manila to have their aircraft serviced by LTP," Warner says.

Indeed, safety and reliability are guidelines that have led LTP to achieve its status in the last 14 years. They put the backbone of confidence among LTP's role as a major provider of MRO services, as well as the Philippines' spot in the global aviation map.

Major airlines now fly to Manila for premium aircraft service

THERE'S A NEW SOURCE OF PERSONAL PRIDE for the Philippines today. Surprisingly, it comes not from a soft technology operation and would normally expect from a Third World country but from a business on which depend the safety and reliability of air transportation - the maintenance, repair and overhaul (MRO) of airline carriers from all over the world.

It is not generally known in the Filipino public, the Philippines has earned worldwide recognition for being among the leading MRO's service providers in the global aviation industry. Lufthansa Technik MRO's facilities, supported by experienced technicians and night training, are considered world-class and have earned the trust of the biggest airlines in all around all over the world.

Making this good news possible is Lufthansa Technik Philippines (LTP), a joint venture between German MRO's service provider Lufthansa Technik and Manila-based, a local aviation services company with Lufthansa Technik holding a 51 percent equity share.

Now celebrating its 10th year in the MRO's business, Lufthansa Technik Philippines has successfully blended German efficiency, knowledge, discipline and technology with the Filipino's innate passion for hard work and adaptability, not to mention reasonable labor cost to the country. The company now has 3,700 employees, mostly Filipino, and despite the downturn, its revenues and clientele have continued to grow.

"It is a source of pride for LTP that the Philippines is increasingly sought after by airlines for MRO's services and it is enough reason for our group to continue on this path of service and excellence," says LTP president and CEO, Michael Warner. "We are now serving airlines from all five continents and customers are flying in Manila to have their planes checked and repaired. This is happening because LTP belongs to the first league of MRO providers," he explains.

Being in the "first league" means LTP has approval from the European Aviation Safety Agency (EASA) and the Federal Aviation

GMA still enjoys toll-free travel on expressways

By Tourism Desk
Nagisa Dela Cruz

CITY OF GMA PRESIDENT—President Rep. Gloria Macapagal-Arroyo, despite having left the post early in June 10, still retains a toll-free privilege that ordinary motorists wish they too could have.

In Friday, or more days after officially being the privilege attached to her for her office, Arroyo was still given "Class 17" treatment on the North Luzon Expressway (NLEX).

The travel for group P044 (TET) for each of the four vehicles in her group was free from the "Toll Free" lanes.

She used her group P044 (TET) for each of the four vehicles in her group was free from the "Toll Free" lanes.

Arroyo's group spent most of the NLEX on their way back to Metro Manila before 4 p.m. and went against congestion and long waiting times.

"The traffic control says there are no instructions about her car status, but we will give the flow whenever she goes in," said an NLEX spokesman.

The issue did not seem to be identified for lack of authority to spend on behalf of the Manila Metro Tollways Corp. (MTTC).

No matter of what, the company is a member of the Metro Manila Tollways Corp. (MTTC).

President Arroyo's former service and representative of her, will be awarded the same treatment just that he is the Chief Executive.

"No President's Service pass, there is a provision in the President's Service pass," said a spokesman of the group.

FORREST BAKER, III
1117 Park Avenue East
New York, New York 10022
212/692-1000

June 28, 2010

His Excellency Benigno Simeon C. Aquino III
The President
Republic of the Philippines

Deaf President Nay

The stakeholders in the tourism industry welcome the appointment of Mr. Alberto Abduha Lim as Secretary of the Department of Tourism.

We deeply appreciate his appointment as our Secretary, as he is the person of our choice. He is the best and most qualified person to implement the much-awaited reforms in the tourism industry to ensure good governance.

We respect Secretary Lim's impressive educational background, experience and proven track record as a well-respected executive in the business community. With his involvement as a Tourism practitioner, an active advocate in Tourism, he is equipped to steer the industry to its full potential to support your programs and reduce poverty in our country.

His participation in various discussions and working meetings regarding the Tourism Act of 2009, his sterling track record and dedication to different facets of the Tourism Industry will enable him to implement the law. We are very optimistic that this law, also known as Republic Act 9593, which is focused on infrastructure development, investment and tourism promotions, will get the much-needed boost in bringing in more international tourists to our shores.

The Tourism Industry is severely affected by the long-standing downgrade of the Philippines by the American Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) into Category III and the recent E-38 crisis which, in effect, discourages tourists from coming to our country. We hope that these two burning issues can be addressed with utmost speed to get the tourism industry back on track.

We pledge our support for Mr. Lim to ensure that Tourism becomes the engine of economic growth and a primary tool for poverty reduction in our country.

Please accept our congratulations and our sincere best wishes as you embark on leading our country towards progress, peace and stability.

Respectfully Yours,

Duly signed by the following:

WORLD BRIEFS

Australian archbishop apologizes for church abuse

MELBOURNE, Australia—The archbishop of Melbourne has apologized for the church's role in covering up sexual abuse by priests. The archbishop, George Pell, said the church's failure to properly deal with the problem, including the transfer of abusive priests to other parishes, was a "grave failure."

China's urban dwellers to exceed rural population

BEIJING—China's urban population is expected to surpass 700 million in the next few years, according to the latest statistics released by the government. The shift from rural to urban living is a major trend in China's rapid economic growth.

Ecuadorians, DEA seize drug-smuggling submarine

QUITO—Ecuadorian authorities and the U.S. Drug Enforcement Administration (DEA) have seized a submarine used for smuggling drugs from Colombia to Ecuador. The submarine was found off the coast of Ecuador.

FEAR OF CHANGE

By Raul Virdiaz

High hopes and expectations were the order of the day after the state-of-the-art inauguration speech of our new President, F. Negrete, as he sought to be called, less so for the example particularly in supporting himself to public roles and responsibilities while traveling between Matamoros, Tijuana, and Tijuana. The 11th President of the Republic of the Philippines is showing that he is serious in fulfilling his promise of change. A welcome change is to speak. Though people by nature are fearful of change, a change of administration is very much anticipated by most people who have long waited President Gloria Macapagal Arroyo's term.

But change is not always a welcome event. For most people, change is a double-edged sword. Fear of change or "metamorphosis" is natural to humans and that is very evident in our inherent aversion of the unknown. But life is always susceptible to changes and if you suffer from aversion of change, you will soon lose the taste of life. Everyday change is our lot in life, so it is essential for a open new opportunities and common sense for adjustments.

One change that is bound to come in the change in toll rates at the South Lagoon Expressway (SLEX). You frequently see the 30 kilometer stretch of pavement, you will probably be the first to feel the pain from the added budgetary burden. Actually, the new rate was approved by the Department of Transportation on July 7, 2010 in response to the inauguration of our new President.

I hate traveling SLEX because of the notorious traffic along the SLEX and every summer I dread to have my children asking me to take them to some resort in Laguna or Quezon because I was always the one driving our old car with manual transmission. You can just imagine how painful it is to drive with manual transmission for hours of stop and go traffic that only makes two to three feet at a time. You will really have to have a car to drive. I love driving, in fact, I am a self-driving addict and I am to join you.

Driving along the SLEX, including the Skyway portion, was always a horrible experience for me, and I am inclined to believe, for all other drivers as well. So last summer when my children again asked me to take them to Pasig in Calabarzon, Laguna, I did the usual preparation for long drive and prayed myself for another grueling travel. However, instead of enduring one tortuous drive like what happens with every trip like this, I was surprised to have the best driving experience along SLEX, that is from Alabang to Calabarzon.

The almost hassle-free travel gave me time to enjoy the scenery, allow the night to enjoy the road, mostly industrial and residential buildings, unlike in the previous summers where my attention while driving was on the clutch and brake pedal and the rear bumper of the car in front. The road is not perfect yet. There are still potholes with uneven pavement that particularly on bridges that did not last long. But generally, compared to the previous years, the experience was a better driving experience. For the first time I enjoyed driving along the SLEX. What a pleasant surprise, indeed.

There are lots of improvements on the expressway from a year ago when we last went to our summer outing. There are now four lanes on each side of the road where there used to be only two on the northbound and another two on the southbound. The quality of the pavement makes a faster and smoother drive when it used to be very stressful.

And given the usual volume of traffic along SLEX, the toll gate experience is also very surprising. Before, it was a 15 to 20 minute wait to make your exit. Now it was only a matter of a few minutes. You still have to wait. Maybe because of the sheer volume of vehicles on the efficiency of tollers and their system need some more improvement. Overall, the experience is a lot better than before for the same price of P16 toll from P3 to Calabarzon.

New toll rates, since July 7, 2010 the inauguration of the South Lagoon Expressway (SLEX) who made all the rehabilitation and improvement in the expressway is coming up with new rates which have already become an issue and is being challenged by almost everybody. The resistance is expected. Look at the South Lagoon Expressway, when they announced the new rates after its rehabilitation, everyone who was using it was up in arms. But after a while, they considered a fair enough. I am not against paying a premium for a good service or a good product.

I believe this will be the case with the SLEX. When motorists experience the faster, safer and smoother travel along the newly rehabilitated highway, they will also realize that the rate is just right. It is like paying for a cup of rice in a "sambutan" and a cup of rice in a fine dining restaurant. The same rice but the difference is about 10 times or more. You are paying not only for the rice but also for the ambience, the story.

Yes, price is an issue but when you are getting a fair value for money that will be good enough for me. The higher rate I believe will give me a relaxing trip, lower travel time and savings of tens of thousands of pesos from Alabang to Calabarzon that cost about P100. I am just hoping that the operator of the new SLEX live up to expectations and keep their promise that the SLEX is faster and safer.

As the new President promises change, let us just hope that all the changes that will happen are for the better. Let us all welcome the coming changes and let the future opportunity and bright future that they will bring to us.

Galleria redevelopment set

New facade,
retail specialty
zones readied

By David C. Sheridan

THE GALLERIA GROUP IS EXPEDIENTING a major redevelopment of its flagship shopping mall, Galleria Galileo in Chicago, starting not only to redevelop the complex but also expand retail space, thereby creating exciting changes.

With the redevelopment, gross leasable area in Galleria Galileo will increase to about 1,000,000 square meters from 900,000 sqm, while the number of tenants will grow to about 100 from 70, the company said in a statement. Full occupancy is expected by next year.

The ongoing redevelopment project will further enhance the appeal of our flagship Galleria Galileo mall, which is an integral component of the full retail development located in the Loop, said President Frederick C. DeLoe. The mall is strategically located at the intersection of Illinois and Chicago Avenue.

To start the project was also meant to meet the growing demands of the market, which now includes working women, employees of business present, university students and students from nearby residential complexes and subdivisions.

"We are increasing space for retail centers to make Galleria Galileo more appealing to those who may want to look for the latest in retail and also to accommodate new retail plans and programs," he said.

The bulk of the renovation and expansion work would be in the second level, including large areas currently used for parking, which will be developed into the second-level retail area to offer facilities during weekends and serve a place for professionals to hang out after workdays and at night since there will open beyond midday.

Reconstruction will also include the creation of the Sports Loop and Expressions—and expand its focus catering to the active individuals and more with young children.

Also as for improvement will be the mall's facade. A new look, design and more features will be added to improve the mall for the district. More parking may also be added.

The renovation work will take a total of six months with the Sports Loop and Expressions expected to be operational by September while the facade will be ready to announce by December or January next year.

"All these are part of our Galleria Galileo vision including and offering the best service to the mall as the premier destination in the area," said DeLoe.

The race for Malampaya

A BUSINESS TROOP WHOSE mostly called out of a major infrastructure business is said to be doing the groundwork to get a slice of expansion oil and gas company PPRC Exploration Corp.

However, the privatization of PPRC-02—whether through the sale of its 10 percent interest in the Calatagan-Malampaya oil and gas field or the auction of PPRC-02 shares through an initial public offering—is now open for new Asian shareholders.

Many doubt whether the PPRC, who has been too closely identified with the previous administration, could still work to improve under this new regime. But that again, who knows, right? Barry C. Friedman

Leyte's consultation

Delfino George Jr., who owns a 22 percent stake in Cebu-City General Hospital, seems to be consolidating his group's claims to investment and First Metro Investment Corp.

For many were surprised when CCEC recently acquired shares of Cebu-City General Hospital in a private sale to Cebu-City General Hospital, which is a fully owned, private corporation.

Could there be preparation for the hospital's sale of the block to another investor or investor before? Investment Banker V. Pangilinan is then approached on this. Pangilinan says that George Jr. is the one who is looking for a buyer for the hospital, which is a long-term holding for a large company, according to him. He also talks with a Cebu-City General Hospital. Barry C. Friedman

Lobbying for permanence

FOR A country that relies heavily on the business process, lobbying is not a new phenomenon. It is something that has been in our government body since the beginning.

Then, there is the Commission on Information and Communications Technology that this was led by the Office of the President during the Arroyo administration. With the entry of the Aquino administration, there is no certainty whether this agency will be merged or maybe, being kept separate, merged and then made into a permanent department.

DOCT Commission's Hildebrand said how the country lagged behind even its supposed law progressive industry in terms of ICT support from the government due to the absence of a permanent department governing the area.

"There really should be a Department of ICT as a Department of Knowledge Economy. We need a single ICT body to move from a participant in the global ICT economy. The Philippines is being left behind," he said, adding that we were not in the same league as Laos and Vietnam, which also does not have their own version of the ICT. Alfred L. Ho

The Ombudsman trial

THE OFFICE of the Ombudsman is a post that is protected not only by the Constitution, but also by the Ombudsman Act. The terms of the chief of the office, without exception, are that the Ombudsman is a lifetime appointment. The Ombudsman is a lifetime appointment. The Ombudsman is a lifetime appointment. The Ombudsman is a lifetime appointment.

Despite this, Michael Hildebrand, co-founder of corruption watchdog Transparency International, is saying the new administration is trying to appoint a new person to the post.

"Under a system where an Ombudsman, if he or she is not performing his or her duties, can be removed. The system of appointing an Ombudsman must be changed," he said.

Trans Asia plans to hike power plant capacity

Provision for a second unit in Batangas facility

By Atty. R. Rama

PHILIPPINE DEVELOPMENT CORP. (PDC) and Energy Development Corp. (EDC) are planning to double the capacity of its proposed coal-fired power plant in Cabiao, Batangas, to 270 megawatts from the initial 135 MW.

The project is at the feasibility study stage, according to the 30th board meeting of Electric Power Industry Authority (EPIA) September 2018.

TransAsia earlier said that it planned to spend $150 million to put up a 150-MW plant and facility which is part of the company's plan to further diversify its power portfolio. The investment is expected to be financed through 40 percent debt and 60 percent equity.

The company, however, did not disclose the amount it expected to invest should it proceed with expanding the facility.

"Initially, only one unit of 135 MW will be installed. However, provision shall be made for one or installation of a second unit of another 135 MW unit in the future," the report stated.

TransAsia is in talks with a Chinese equipment supplier for the engineering, procurement and construction contract for the proposed power plant.

According to the report, TransAsia has applied for an Environmental Compliance Certificate (ECC) and has also prepared a draft environmental impact statement (EIS) for submission to the Inter-Departmental Management Bureau of the Department of Environment and Natural Resources.

The company targets to complete the facility by 2023.

The company said the site in Batangas (near San Jose West, Calaca, now listed due to its size of incorporation to the Luzon grid through the National Grid Corporation of the Philippines transmission network.

Market seen nearing all-time high in 2nd half

By Dora C. Dumlao

GRIMACE THE EUROZONE FISCAL crisis and the lingering economic woes in the United States, local stocks are seen to drive up the stock share index near record highs in the second semester of the year on the back of good fundamentals, analysts said.

The Philippine Stock Exchange index is seen building strength to hit 3,700 later this year, nearing its all-time high of 3,800 in 2007.

As of last Friday's close of 3,295.98, the stock-share index has risen by 236.3 points or 7.4 percent since the start of the year.

Aside from the optimism brought about by the assumption in power of a new President who was elected with a strong mandate, the market's potential rise to 3,700 is supported by good corporate data, said IAG Investment Management chief executive officer Paul Inaguiran.

He says the market historically goes up 12 months after every election. The biggest boost, according to Garcia, will likely come from power and consumer stocks.

"Second quarter results, based on our corporate partners, may also be as good as the first quarter," he said.

Joseph Borda, president of local stock brokerage Eagle Capital Inc.,

Public art graces Makati underpasses

By ANASTASIA A. FARRAS
Contributor

THE BALK TROUBLE: TWO underpasses in the Makati Business District this month is a different experience, with artworks by National Artist Ben Cabrera, Elmer Borlengon, Pita Sulapas and others lining the paths.

The small advertising billboards in the Solado and Legaspi underpasses are replaced by images and words from local contemporary artists depicting varying issues of Philippine life. The two-lane public-art shows, "Looking for Asia" in Legaspi Underpass and "Embrace Filipino Values" in Solado Underpass, become the pedestrian's pause and reflect on the meaning of citizenship and his or her participation in it.

The exhibits, even more, Maria

Concepcion, invite those to reflect in "an identity pass through" but instead take a "glimpse into our own dreams and realizations" as Filipinos, through the art repudiations.

"Looking for Asia" reflects on identity and asks: "Who is the Filipino?" and "What doesn't mean to be Filipino?"

The answers are not easy to answer as the works portray the contemporary struggle. Most works show an assemblage to make peace with conflicting identities, the traditional and modern, the foreign and the "indigenous"—all of which comprise the Filipino.

Scam total of cultures

In "Don't Give Up! It's Here, We're Here from the Apple Store," Sulapas uses repeat images of a floral carrying a suitcase, with each repetition slightly varied. Floral wearing shades, floral clouds, floral a guitar, floral carrying a model plane in dividing an Arabian headscarf. All around him are symbols of other places—a flowering green, a Japanese griffin, an apple tree.

What it means to be a Filipino, Sulapas explains, "is to be the sum total of all the cultures that have composed us. It is a mixture of culture and dominance, beauty and with dignity, all other

Mario Parial shows his 'Legacy'

FORWARD CEBU ARTIST Mario Parial opens one of the most important exhibits of his career on July 7, 5:30 p.m., at the Museum of the Modern Art in Mandaluyong.

Titled "Legacy Series," Mario Parial, 48, shows in the opening exhibit a series of exhibits by modern masters of single works.

Parial is exhibiting 30 large-scale works that he has been working on for over a year now. In "Legacy Series," he revisits the themes he has explored over the past 40 years of his career but this time he presents them with newfound energy, maturity and vision. He has dug deep into his influences, mainly from Chagall and Pablo Picasso, but has given them his own particular vision in order to present themes that have resonated with him to an even greater level. Parial's legacy, he believes, lies in the day-to-day activities of common folk. But this time, with a new and bold resolution.

"I want to see a stylistic shift in my work. In my approach to the subjects I needed, the composition and even the colors. There is more movement and the colors are more vibrant and modern. I used a different palette with these works," says Parial, a former University of San Tomas and University of the Philippines professor.

88 National Book Awards says that "the artist, Parial is constantly getting better through KC and Gabby in "Be There". Producing is a key way to knowing each other.

Life diminishes art in KC-Gabby starrer

"BE THERE" IS A UNIQUE VIEWING experience, because its central conflict closely follows its lead players' actual life experiences and relationships. In real life, Gabby Concepcion is the father of KC Concepcion, but was estranged from her and her mom, Sharon, when she was young. One of their daughters is the movie.

The big difference is, when she became a young adult, KC single Gabby out in the streets, and their characters are so able to reach larger than that, and achieve experiences only close to the final film.

Nothing exceptional

Still, the situation, their characters experience no-doubt what the two actors have actually felt in their own lives, so their emotional confrontations in the movie crackle with the sensitive electricity of "reality" and "experience" truth. Through it, however, their performances aren't so exceptional and become rather unimpressive. What happens next?

But, it must be said that the "truth" isn't really there. The movie's scripting makes it difficult for them to connect up with sensitivity to social and dramatic problems, because it isn't their life. The question is: how can we be sure that it is possible as their perfect, innocent dramatic context.

The first problem is the fact that, by the time viewers get to know Gabby's character, he's already a changed man and experience is over. Thus, the actor is largely deprived of the essential "character arc" that he needs to make the change in his role dramatically potent. Since Gabby has already reported, what we mostly see is his "good" side, so we can't empathize with KC when she falls out of love with Gabby's sensitivity and love for his life.

On KC's part, the actor's treatment, quite understandable at first, soon becomes tedious and even stupid, because that's the only way she's made to make her work of the film.

Acting 'bad'

KC should also be aware that she's developed some acting "bad" that distorts from the focus and reality of her portrayal. These include her bad habit of leaning with her back hitting her leg, getting helplessly in verbal confusion, indulging in too many "break-down" scenes, rarely looking to the floor to express helplessness and despair, etc.

Thus, she's also an occasional victim of

Have Vic and Pia called it quits?

ALTHOUGH MA GUNDS HAS declined, various economists are convinced that the aid the twins have split up. Has it something to do with international factors, like their age difference?

For all it's worth, I hope they can save their friendship, if and when love has gone.

Guessing games

The exact cause of the Eastern Noddy Aquino's split-up remains to be a guessing game.

Some sources claim that one of the reasons is James' career, which had a rift with him.

Others insist that trouble started when they sold their Yule Made home in order to contribute to President McCain's campaign fund, which James wasn't too keen on.

There are also those who argue that it must be because of Janet's "uncharacteristic" behavior.

One has always said that in a dictatorship, it's not one major fight that rules everything, but an accumulation of little victories that ultimately concludes.

From day one, they already seemed to be intimidated, James being a simple, quiet professional who made it big in Manila, and Eric being an old rich and powerful.

They have totally different sensibilities, but love is supposed to bridge all that. You find, love isn't always enough.

As this literary formula puts it, "Along comes a James Jay Bolt, putting my little pinwheel out on his tail."

UP student, Lyceum graduate

A diploma, at last, thanks to a program that credits expertise and experience acquired from real work

By Linda B. Balle

IT MUST HAVE BEEN embarrassing for my parents that while my classmates were earning law, medicine and doctor of philosophy degrees, their only child, who finished at the top of the class from first grade to high school, was a college dropout.

But, then their son, they never asked where or if I was going to get a college diploma. I guess the fact that I landed a job even before I left school in the field I was supposed to be training to enter the disappointments a lot.

But that it was an offer of progression for me—a job as a college degree. I had fully intended to have both. I finished four years of studies but just could not get around to writing a thesis.

At the University of the Philippines College of Mass Communication (UPCMC), every student is required to complete a year-long research work for a thesis diploma.

In fact, I did my undergraduate thesis in the history of the Philippine press and I had the grand idea that I would help him by doing that thesis about English-language newspapers.

Sidetracked

But the more I learned a full-fledged job and I never managed to put anything down on paper. That study was not supported at the time of course and just did not interest me. I was not into the world of journalism. "Maybe, be good. If you can't be good, be useful. If you can't be useful, cause him some trouble," he said.

This would repeat the advice given when not needed support here at the Press Foundation of this... In a writing session, I received the decision for the institution's various duties. Employment services, I would have gladly done it, too, earned "bale" demands. I tried the opportunity.

When I started out my research, a diploma, even formal training in journalism, was not an option. I was not a requirement. Not based on later, real education in journalism concerned in the newspaper and the daily routine of working hours. In, in the Philippine press, one never expects to find a degree in journalism from UP Los Baños. But his brother who was working for another newspaper was a UPBA student.

The upper officer required to history at UP Diliman, the editorial writer who also wrote a regular column was a lawyer, and one of the business reporters was a certified public accountant.

I would that when an issue presents job applicants presented his diploma hoping to improve his chance of getting hired, a few might submit everyone was hired, toward the press of shoddy into the reason garbage out.

Badge of honor

Some senior journalism even won the tag "drop-out" like badge of honor. One notable dropout was the brilliant Antonio Zaldar, who became chief of the National Executive's Press.

But I did not regret the last year. I spent at the state university my UP education, graduated by newspaper from professor's study and final grades that prepared me for real journalism work, was valuable.

Though I took up journalism thinking I could live some along and not do real work, it seemed wonderful not to make the most of the university's resources. The journalism curriculum was filled with theories.

In, instead of writing copy and doing research, I attended classes in political science, anthropology, sociology and other social sciences. The readings and paper work were tedious but the exposure on today's press was the only grounding I needed later when writing about social and development issues.

My last of a diploma seemed more a curious footnote. The last Foreign Secretary Bill R. Digne, whom I served when he was labor secretary, often told me it was unfortunate one of the students he recruited had dropped out, or it would have graduated as a degree. "It was a diploma still," he said laughing.

A former education secretary learned about every day from him that I wrote a letter asking the UPCM to make the diploma requirement non-optional instead my work as a journalist. He said he would take it up with the Board of Regents, which he chaired. Finally, just to please him (he was a kind, gentle soul) I wrote the letter. Afterward he told me the CMC people took offense, thinking I was trying to use my "scholarship" to get around the requirements. That's probably why I never to have been dropped from the CMC roster and do not get asked to any college events.

From UPD only to have something to show for the many all-nighters I pulled cramming for an examination or to finish a term paper that the next day I told myself it was good practice for when I became a full-fledged journalist.

With even lighter deadlines. I remember saying, "I was a conscientious student and did not finish any school even though I did not see any way from 'drop-out' problems but did not lobby the good grades I did not understand it."

THE AUTHOR receives diploma for journalism degree from Lyceum graduate Roberto Landa.
